WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 31, 1874.

The Safe Burglary case which I have had occasion to speak of, is set for trial on Thursday next. It will be remembered that I said this burglary was organized by the Secret Service of the United States Treasury, for the purpose to implicate one of our best citizens in one of the highest crimes known to the law, because he was the leading memorialist who petitioned Congress to investigate the affairs of the District and the Board of Public Works. And when organized by the Secret Service, the only object they could have had was to bring the investigation in disfavor, and in such a case of course they worked under orders from some power of authority. On the night of the burglary one burglar was allowed to walk away, while the other, Benton, was arrested. He was indicted on the charge of burglary, and subsequently there was a number of other indictments found against him. Since his incarceration in the jail, he has been very reticent, and seldom talked about the case although he has from time to time said that he would not go to the penitentiary. Recently Benton was apprised if the bail could be fixed at $3,000 or below that, a New York man would go on his bond. Last Saturday, a stranger from New York, named Schlitzman, appeared, and showing evidence that he was responsible, a Judge was called on, and finally a bond was entered at $2,000 and the prisoner was released, and left at once for New York.

When this affair was before a Congressional Committee, Mr. Harrington of the District Attorney's office, was questioned as to his holding two offices under the United States. He replied "I am not an officer of the United States, except as I am Secretary of the District. I have no commission at all as Assistant District Attorney. There is no such office known to the law." This being the case, the public will want to know how and where he got his authority to sign a certificate of the sufficiency of Benton's bail bond, to which he appended his name as Asst. Dist. Attorney, and upon which the Judge acted. Another thing: Attorney General Williams knowing the office of the District Attorney was so notoriously mixed up with the affair as to be unfit to deal with it in an official capacity, appointed Mr. A. G. Riddle as Asst. Attorney General to take entire charge of the prosecution, and therefore, supposing Harrington legally held his office, neither he nor the Dist. Attorney had any right to take action in the case.

The Judge who signed the paper for his release, is residing in Maryland, and had no more right to transact the business of the Court there, than he would have had in Pekin. The order for Benton's release was therefore without authority, but it nevertheless sufficed to get him out of jail, and prevent him from telling what he knew about the burglary and that is all that is wanted. The belief entertained by the people of its being a "job" is strengthened when the man has been in jail four months, then released four days before his case was set for trial. It seems we never will reach the end of this nefarious plot, and when we consider all the circumstances connected with the case, the obstacles that are thrown in the way of bringing it to speedy justice, the anxiety to secure the guilty parties, it carries with it a significance of the most alarming character, and well it may, when the machinery of law and justice is prostituted to such purposes.

Hayes, the Secret Service detective, now in jail on the charge of "putting up" the safe burglary, has applied, through counsel, for release on bail. The Judge presiding at the Criminal Court postponed the hearing until Mr. Riddle's return, (which should have been the case with Benton). Hayes exposed the whole job, which he arranged while acting under orders of the Chief and Assistant Chief of the U. S. Secret Service. The Chronicle says: "He intends to send the whole party to the penitentiary. His evidence cannot be contradicted, being corroborated on every side by others. The ring rascals who conspired in this monstrous job, are shaking in their boots. Harrington don't intend to go to the penitentiary alone, either."

The dismissal of Cols. Whitley and Nettleship, Chief and Asst. Chief of the Secret Service, has been decided upon by the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary has been delaying his action in the matter of these removals, until the Burglary is taken up. The service system will be reorganized. There are several applications for the Chief. Among others, the Chief-of-police of Milwaukee has applied.

A new Monthly Magazine will be issued about November 1st, from this city, and the encouragement, extended to it so far by our people is very gratifying. It is called the National, and is devoted to art, music, literature, science, fashion and the drama. The scientific department will be edited by a prominent scientist from the Smithsonian Institution. Talent of the first order will be engaged on the musical department. Correspondence from Europe, and the leading cities of the United States has been arranged, and two sheets of music, vocal and instrumental will accompany each number, and be presented to the purchaser. Thus far nearly every one approached for a subscription has responded favorably, and there is no doubt that the list in this city alone will reach 2000.

In connection with the Mosby-Payne duel, reported in my last paper, a telegram was forwarded by authority from Warrenton, Va.,—"that the difficulty between the parties was amicably and honorably adjusted on the 24th." According to the laws of the State of Va., participants in duels are excluded from civil office, so that the late efforts of Col. Mosby and Capt. Payne to fight a duel, remove them both from the political arena, and renders one, at least, hereafter ineligible to office.

It is said that the Commissioners have determined not to pave Pennsylvania Avenue, as was contemplated some time ago. This Avenue is the main boulevard between the Capitol and the Treasury. It was paved with wood three years ago, but now needs repair. The reason of this decision is not given, but it is doubtless because of the financial condition of the District.

General Spenser, Treasurer of the U. S., received a certificate of deposit from the First National Bank of Burlington, Vermont, for $5,000 deposited by R. D. Gage, executor of the estate of N. F. Day, of Bristol Vt., with that Bank. In his will, Mr. Day desires that the amount should be paid in this manner as his contribution toward paying off the National debt.

The new Post-Master General, Marshall Jewell, arrived here last week and called at the Post-office Department where he remained a few hours. He will be sworn in about Sept. 4th. Mr. Jewell is very popular. The President has made happy selections in the two late appointments, viz. Bristow of the Treasury, and Jewell of the Post-office. The State and War Departments next.

We have a model Policeman. About four months since a colored man named Clark (said to be a politician from Alabama) was appointed a private on the force, and ordered to report for duty to a Lieutenant. He served for about twenty-five days, then he left without leave. He was reported, but instead of being ruled up for trial, was given thirty days leave, with pay. When his time expired, an extension of another thirty days was given, but without pay. Altogether he has been absent seventy-eight days, and it is not known where he is, but reports have it, he is in Alabama in the Legislature.

Wallace McKendry, a Clerk in the Adjutant-General's office, War Dept., shot himself through the head, Friday last, killing himself instantly. No cause assigned.

Fredrick Douglass, the colored orator, who was appointed a member of the Board of School Trustees, has declined the office.
